

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF IOWA
EASTERN DIVISION

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

vs.

LAWRENCE JOHNSON,

Defendant.

No. 11-CR-2025-LRR

FINAL JURY INSTRUCTIONS

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Jury:

The instructions I gave you at the beginning of the trial and during the trial remain in effect. I will now give you some additional instructions.

You must, of course, continue to follow the instructions I gave you earlier, as well as those I give you now. You must not single out some instructions and ignore others, because all are important. This is true even though some of those I gave you at the beginning of and during trial are not repeated here.

The instructions I am about to give you now are in writing and will be available to you in the jury room. I emphasize, however, that this does not mean they are more important than my earlier instructions. Again, all instructions, whenever given and whether in writing or not, must be followed.

INSTRUCTION NO. 1

In considering these instructions, attach no importance or significance whatsoever to the order in which they are given.

INSTRUCTION NO. 2

Neither in these instructions nor in any ruling, action or remark that I have made during this trial have I intended to give any opinion or suggestion as to what the facts are or what your verdicts should be.

INSTRUCTION NO. 3

It is your duty to find from the evidence what the facts are. You will then apply the law, as I give it to you, to those facts. You must follow my instructions on the law, even if you thought the law was different or should be different.

Do not allow sympathy or prejudice to influence you. The law demands of you just verdicts, unaffected by anything except the evidence, your common sense and the law as I give it to you.

INSTRUCTION NO. 4

I have mentioned the word “evidence.” The “evidence” in this case consists of the following: the testimony of the witnesses, the stipulations of the parties and documents and other things received as exhibits.

You may use reason and common sense to draw deductions or conclusions from facts which have been established by the evidence in the case.

Certain things are not evidence. I shall list those things again for you now:

1. Statements, arguments, questions and comments by the lawyers are not evidence.
2. Anything that might have been said by jurors, the attorneys or the judge during the jury selection process is not evidence.
3. Objections are not evidence. The parties have a right to object when they believe something is improper. You should not be influenced by the objection. If I sustained an objection to a question, you must ignore the question and must not try to guess what the answer might have been.
4. Testimony that I struck from the record, or told you to disregard, is not evidence and must not be considered.
5. Anything you saw or heard about this case outside the courtroom is not evidence.

During the trial, documents were referred to but they were not admitted into evidence and, therefore, they will not be available to you in the jury room during deliberations.

Finally, if you were instructed that some evidence was received for a limited purpose only, you must follow that instruction.

INSTRUCTION NO. 5

There are two types of evidence from which a jury may properly find the truth as to the facts of a case: direct evidence and circumstantial evidence. Direct evidence is the evidence of the witnesses to a fact or facts of which they have knowledge by means of their senses. The other is circumstantial evidence—the proof of a chain of circumstances pointing to the existence or nonexistence of certain facts. The law makes no distinction between direct and circumstantial evidence. You should give all evidence the weight and value you believe it is entitled to receive.

INSTRUCTION NO. 6

The jurors are the sole judges of the weight and credibility of the testimony and the value to be given to the testimony of each witness who has testified in this case. In deciding what the facts are, you may have to decide what testimony you believe and what testimony you do not believe. You may believe all of what a witness said, or only part of it or none of it.

In deciding what testimony to believe, consider the witness's intelligence, the opportunity the witness had to have seen or heard the things testified about, the witness's memory, any motives that witness may have for testifying a certain way, the manner of the witness while testifying, whether that witness said something different at an earlier time, the general reasonableness of the testimony and the extent to which the testimony is consistent with any evidence that you believe.

In deciding whether or not to believe a witness, keep in mind that people sometimes hear or see things differently and sometimes forget things. You need to consider, therefore, whether a contradiction is an innocent misrecollection or lapse of memory or an intentional falsehood, and that may depend on whether it has to do with an important fact or only a small detail.

INSTRUCTION NO. 7

In a previous instruction, I instructed you generally on the credibility of witnesses. I now give you this further instruction on how the credibility of a witness can be “impeached” and how you are to consider the testimony of certain witnesses.

A witness may be discredited or impeached by contradictory evidence; by showing that the witness testified falsely concerning a material matter; by showing the witness has a motive to be untruthful; or by evidence that at some other time the witness has said or done something, or has failed to say or do something, that is inconsistent with the witness’s present testimony.

You have heard evidence that certain witnesses were once convicted of a crime. You may use that evidence only to help you decide whether to believe these witnesses and how much weight to give their testimony.

You have heard testimony from certain witnesses who stated that they participated in some of the crimes charged against the defendant. Their testimony was received in evidence and may be considered by you. You may give their testimony such weight as you think it deserves. Whether or not their testimony may have been influenced by their desire to please the government or to strike a good bargain with the government about their own situation is for you to determine.

You have heard evidence that certain witnesses made plea agreements with the government. Their testimony was received in evidence and may be considered by you. You may give their testimony such weight as you think it deserves. Whether or not their testimony may have been influenced by the plea agreement is for you to determine.

A witness’s guilty plea cannot be considered by you as any evidence of the defendant’s guilt. The witness’s guilty plea can be considered by you only for the purpose of determining how much, if at all, to rely upon the witness’s testimony.

You have heard evidence that certain witnesses hope to receive a reduced sentence on criminal charges pending against these witnesses in return for the witnesses' cooperation with the government in this case. If the prosecutor handling a witness's case believes the witness provided substantial assistance, that prosecutor can file in the court in which the charges are pending against the witness a motion to reduce the witness's sentence. The judge has no power to reduce a sentence for substantial assistance unless the government, acting through the United States Attorney, files such a motion. If such a motion for reduction of sentence for substantial assistance is filed by the government, then it is up to the judge to decide whether to reduce the sentence at all, and if so, how much to reduce it. You may give the testimony of these witnesses such weight as you think it deserves. Whether or not the testimony of the witnesses may have been influenced by the witnesses' hopes of receiving a reduced sentence is for you to decide.

Finally, you have heard testimony about the character and reputation of certain witnesses for truthfulness. You may consider this evidence only in deciding whether to believe the testimony of these witnesses and how much weight to give to their testimony.

INSTRUCTION NO. 8

The value of identification testimony depends on the opportunity the witness had to observe the offender at the time of the offense and to make a reliable identification later.

In evaluating such testimony you should consider all of the factors mentioned in these instructions concerning your assessment of the credibility of any witness, and you should also consider, in particular, whether the witness had an adequate opportunity to observe the person in question at the time of the offense. You may consider, in that regard, such matters as the length of time the witness had to observe the person in question, the prevailing conditions at that time in terms of visibility or distance and the like, and whether the witness had known or observed the person at earlier times.

The government has the burden of proving identity beyond a reasonable doubt. It is not essential that the witness be free from doubt as to the correctness of the identification. However you, the jury, must be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt of the accuracy of the identification of the defendant before you may find him guilty. If you are not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was the person who committed the crime, you must find the defendant not guilty.

INSTRUCTION NO. 9

Exhibits have been admitted into evidence and are to be considered along with all of the other evidence to assist you in reaching your verdicts. You are not to tamper with the exhibits or their contents, and each exhibit should be returned into open court, along with your verdicts, in the same condition as it was received by you.

INSTRUCTION NO. 10

You have heard testimony from persons described as experts. Persons who, by knowledge, skill, training, education or experience, have become experts in some field may state their opinions on matters in that field and may also state the reasons for their opinions.

Expert testimony should be considered just like any other testimony. You may accept it or reject it, and give it as much weight as you think it deserves, considering the witness's education and experience, the soundness of the reasons given for the opinion, the acceptability of the methods used and all the other evidence in the case.

INSTRUCTION NO. 11

You have heard testimony that the defendant made a statement to law enforcement.

It is for you to decide:

First, whether the defendant made the statement; and

Second, if so, how much weight you should give to it.

In making these two decisions, you should consider all of the evidence, including the circumstances under which the statement may have been made.

INSTRUCTION NO. 12

A reasonable doubt is a doubt based upon reason and common sense, and not the mere possibility of innocence. A reasonable doubt is the kind of doubt that would make a reasonable person hesitate to act. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt, therefore, must be proof of such a convincing character that a reasonable person would not hesitate to rely and act upon it. However, proof beyond a reasonable doubt does not mean proof beyond all possible doubt.

INSTRUCTION NO. 13

The Indictment in this case charges the defendant in Counts 1, 11, 14, 21 and 22. The other counts in the Indictment have been resolved.

In Count 1, the Indictment charges that, beginning on or before January 2007 and continuing through on or about April 18, 2011, in the Northern District of Iowa and elsewhere, the defendant conspired with others to distribute and possess with intent to distribute one kilogram or more of a mixture or substance containing a detectable amount of heroin, a Schedule I controlled substance.

In Count 11, the Indictment charges that, on or about January 12, 2011, in the Northern District of Iowa, the defendant did knowingly and intentionally distribute a mixture or substance containing a detectable amount of heroin, a Schedule I controlled substance.

In Count 14, the Indictment charges that, on or about February 15, 2011, in the Northern District of Iowa, the defendant did knowingly and intentionally possess with intent to distribute a mixture or substance containing a detectable amount of heroin, a Schedule I controlled substance.

In Count 21, the Indictment charges that, on or about February 15, 2011, in the Northern District of Iowa, the defendant knowingly possessed a firearm in furtherance of a drug trafficking crime.

Finally, in Count 22, the Indictment charges that, on or about February 15, 2011, in the Northern District of Iowa, the defendant knowingly possessed a firearm after having previously been convicted of a felony.

The defendant has pleaded not guilty to each crime with which he is charged.

INSTRUCTION NO. 13 (Cont'd)

As I told you at the beginning of the trial, an indictment is simply an accusation. It is not evidence of anything. To the contrary, the defendant is presumed to be innocent. Thus the defendant, even though charged, begins the trial with no evidence against him. The presumption of innocence alone is sufficient to find the defendant not guilty and can be overcome only if the government proves, beyond a reasonable doubt, each element of the crime charged.

Keep in mind that you must consider, separately, each crime charged against the defendant, and must return a separate verdict for each of those crimes charged.

There is no burden upon the defendant to prove he is innocent. Accordingly, the fact that the defendant did not testify must not be considered by you in anyway, or even discussed, in arriving at your verdicts.

INSTRUCTION NO. 14

The crime of conspiracy to distribute heroin, as charged in Count 1 of the Indictment, has three elements, which are:

One, beginning on or before January 2007 and continuing through on or about April 18, 2011, two or more persons reached an agreement or came to an understanding to distribute or to possess with the intent to distribute heroin;

Two, the defendant voluntarily and intentionally joined in the agreement or understanding, either at the time it was first reached or at some later time while it was still in effect; and

Three, at the time the defendant joined in the agreement or understanding, he knew the purpose of the agreement or understanding.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this crime, the government must prove all of these elements beyond a reasonable doubt; otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of the crime charged under Count 1.

To assist you in determining whether there was an agreement or understanding to commit the crime of distributing or possessing with the intent to distribute heroin, you are advised that the elements of distributing a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute are set forth in Instruction Numbers 17 and 18. However, keep in mind that Count 1 of the Indictment charges a conspiracy to distribute or to possess with the intent to distribute heroin and does not require the government to prove that the crime of distribution of heroin or the crime of possession with the intent to distribute heroin was actually committed.

INSTRUCTION NO. 15

In considering whether the government has met its burden of proving a conspiracy as alleged in Count 1 of the Indictment, you are further instructed as follows:

The government must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant reached an agreement or understanding with at least one other person. It makes no difference whether that person is a defendant or named in the Indictment as long as you find beyond a reasonable doubt that there was at least one other co-conspirator.

The “agreement or understanding” need not be an express or formal agreement or be in writing or cover all the details of how it is to be carried out. Nor is it necessary that the members have directly stated between themselves the details or purpose of the scheme.

You should understand that merely being present at the scene of an event, or merely acting in the same way as others or merely associating with others, does not prove that a person has joined in an agreement or understanding. A person who has no knowledge of a conspiracy but who happens to act in a way which advances some purposes of one does not thereby become a member.

But a person may join in an agreement or understanding, as required by this element, without knowing all the details of the agreement or understanding, and without knowing who all the other members are. Further, it is not necessary that a person agree to play any particular part in carrying out the agreement or understanding. A person may become a member of a conspiracy even if that person agrees to play only a minor part in the conspiracy, as long as that person has an understanding of the unlawful nature of the plan and voluntarily and intentionally joins it.

You must decide, after considering all of the evidence, whether the conspiracy alleged in Count 1 of the Indictment existed. If you find that the alleged conspiracy did exist, you must also decide whether the defendant voluntarily and intentionally joined the conspiracy, either at the time it was first formed or at some later time while it was still in effect. In making that decision, you must consider only evidence of the defendant's own actions and statements. You may not consider actions and pretrial statements of others, except to the extent that pretrial statements of others describe something that had been said or done by the defendant.

It is not necessary for the government to prove that the conspiracy actually succeeded.

INSTRUCTION NO. 16

If you have found beyond a reasonable doubt that the conspiracy charged in the Indictment existed and that the defendant was a member, then you may consider acts knowingly done and statements knowingly made by the defendant's co-conspirators during the existence of the conspiracy and in furtherance of it as evidence pertaining to the defendant even though they were done or made in the absence of and without the knowledge of the defendant. This includes acts done or statements made before the defendant joined the conspiracy, for a person who knowingly, voluntarily and intentionally joins an existing conspiracy is responsible for all the conduct of the co-conspirators from the beginning of the conspiracy.

INSTRUCTION NO. 17

The crime of distributing heroin, as charged in Count 11 of the Indictment, has two elements, which are:

One, on or about January 12, 2011, the defendant intentionally transferred heroin to another person; and

Two, at the time of the transfer, the defendant knew it was heroin.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this crime, the government must prove all of these elements beyond a reasonable doubt; otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty.

INSTRUCTION NO. 18

The crime of possession of heroin with intent to distribute, as charged in Count 14 of the Indictment, has three elements, which are:

One, on or about February 15, 2011, the defendant was in possession of heroin;

Two, the defendant knew that he was in possession of heroin; and

Three, the defendant intended to distribute some or all of the heroin to another person.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this crime, the government must prove all of these elements beyond a reasonable doubt; otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of the crime charged under Count 14.

INSTRUCTION NO. 19

If your verdict under Instruction Number 18 is not guilty, or if, after all reasonable efforts, you are unable to reach a verdict on Instruction Number 18, you should record that decision on the verdict form and go on to consider whether the defendant is guilty of the crime of possession of heroin under this instruction. The crime of possession of heroin, a lesser-included offense of the crime charged in Count 14 of the Indictment, has two elements, which are:

- One*, on or about February 15, 2011, the defendant was in possession of heroin; and
- Two*, the defendant knew that he was in possession of heroin.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this crime, the government must prove all of these elements beyond a reasonable doubt; otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of this lesser-included offense under Count 14.

INSTRUCTION NO. 20

You are instructed as a matter of law that heroin is a Schedule I controlled substance. You must ascertain whether or not the substances in question as to Counts 1, 11 and 14 were heroin. In so doing, you may consider all the evidence in the case which may aid in the determination of that issue.

In determining whether the defendant is guilty of the offenses charged in Counts 1, 11 and 14, the government is not required to prove that the amount or quantity of the controlled substance was as charged in the Indictment. In determining whether the defendant is guilty of the offenses charged in Counts 1, 11 and 14, the government need only prove beyond a reasonable doubt that there was a detectable amount of the controlled substance.

If you find the defendant guilty of the offense charged in Count 1, you will need to determine whether the quantity of heroin was: (1) 1 kilogram or more; (2) at least 100 grams but less than 1 kilogram; or (3) less than 100 grams.

As to Count 1, the quantity of controlled substance involved in the agreement or understanding includes the controlled substances that the defendant possessed for personal use or distributed or agreed to distribute. The quantity also includes the controlled substances fellow conspirators distributed or agreed to distribute, if you find that those distributions or agreements to distribute were within the scope of the conspiracy charged in the Indictment, or were reasonably foreseeable to the defendant as a necessary or natural consequence of the conspiracy charged in the Indictment.

The burden of proof is on the government to establish the quantity beyond a reasonable doubt. For your information, one gram equals 1,000 milligrams, one ounce equals 28.35 grams, one pound equals 452.6 grams and one kilogram equals 1,000 grams.

INSTRUCTION NO. 21

The term “distribute” means to deliver a controlled substance to the possession of another person. The term “deliver” means the actual or attempted transfer of a controlled substance to the possession of another person. No consideration for the delivery need exist, and it is not necessary that money or anything of value change hands. The law is directed at the act of distribution of a controlled substance and does not concern itself with any need for a “sale” to occur.

INSTRUCTION NO. 22

The crime of possessing a firearm in furtherance of a drug trafficking crime, as charged in Count 21 of the Indictment, has two elements, which are:

One, the defendant committed one or both of the following drug trafficking crimes:

(A) conspiracy to distribute or possess with intent to distribute heroin, as charged in Count 1 of the Indictment; or

(B) possession of heroin with intent to distribute, as charged in Count 14 of the Indictment.

Two, the defendant knowingly possessed a firearm, that is, a FEG 9mm handgun, Model PA-63, serial number LO49783, in furtherance of one or both of those drug trafficking crimes.

The phrase “in furtherance of” should be given its plain meaning, that is, the act of furthering, advancing or helping forward. The phrase “in furtherance of” is a requirement that the defendant possess the firearm with the intent that it advance, assist or help commit the crime, not that it actually did so.

A conviction on a lesser-included offense of simple possession of heroin under Count 14 is not sufficient, by itself, to satisfy the first element above.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this crime, the government must prove all of these elements beyond a reasonable doubt; otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of the crime charged under Count 21.

INSTRUCTION NO. 23

The crime of being a felon in possession of a firearm, as charged in Count 22 of the Indictment, has three elements, which are:

One, the defendant had been convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year;

Two, the defendant thereafter knowingly possessed a firearm, that is, a FEG 9mm handgun, Model PA-63, serial number LO49783; and

Three, the firearm was transported across a state line at some time during or before the defendant possessed it.

You are instructed that the government and the defendant have stipulated, that is, agreed: (1) that the defendant has been convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment for more than one year under the laws of the State of Illinois; and (2) that the firearm was transported across a state line at some time during or before it was seized on February 15, 2011. You must consider the first and third elements as proven.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this crime, the government must prove all of these elements beyond a reasonable doubt; otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of the crime charged under Count 22.

INSTRUCTION NO. 24

You are instructed that, for purposes of considering Counts 21 and 22, the term “firearm” means any weapon (including a starter gun) which will or is designed to or may be readily converted to expel a projectile by the action of an explosive.

INSTRUCTION NO. 25

You have heard evidence that the defendant was previously convicted of two drug felonies in the State of Illinois. You may use that information solely with respect to Count 22, which charges the defendant with being a felon in possession of a firearm, and you may use that information solely for the purpose of establishing the defendant's status as a felon. You may not consider that evidence in your consideration of any other charge against the defendant.

INSTRUCTION NO. 26

The law recognizes several kinds of possession. A person may have actual possession or constructive possession. A person may have sole or joint possession.

A person who knowingly has direct physical control over a thing, at a given time, is then in actual possession of it.

A person who, although not in actual possession, has both the power and the intention at a given time to exercise dominion or control over a thing, either directly or through another person or persons, is then in constructive possession of it.

If one person alone has actual or constructive possession of a thing, possession is sole. If two or more persons share actual or constructive possession of a thing, possession is joint.

Whenever the word "possession" has been used in these instructions it includes actual as well as constructive possession and also sole as well as joint possession.

INSTRUCTION NO. 27

Intent may be proven by circumstantial evidence. It rarely can be established by other means. While witnesses may see or hear and thus be able to give direct evidence of what a person does or fails to do, there can be no eyewitness account of the state of mind with which the acts were done or omitted. But what a defendant does or fails to do may indicate intent or lack of intent to commit an offense.

You may consider it reasonable to draw the inference and find that a person intends the natural and probable consequences of acts knowingly done, but you are not required to do so. As I have previously mentioned, it is entirely up to you to decide what facts to find from the evidence.

I instruct you that possession of a large quantity of heroin supports an inference of an intent to distribute. Thus, in determining whether the defendant possessed heroin with the intent to distribute, you should consider whether the defendant knowingly and intentionally possessed a large quantity of heroin. If you believe that he did, then you may, but are not required to, infer that he had the intent to distribute.

INSTRUCTION NO. 28

The government is not required to prove that the defendant knew that his acts or omissions were unlawful. An act is done “knowingly” if the defendant is aware of the act and did not act through ignorance, mistake or accident. You may consider the evidence of the defendant’s acts and words, along with other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant acted knowingly.

INSTRUCTION NO. 29

You will note that the Indictment charges that the offenses were committed “beginning on or before” and “on or about” certain dates. The government need not prove with certainty the exact date or the exact time period of the offenses charged. It is sufficient if the evidence establishes that the offenses occurred within a reasonable time of the date or period of time alleged in the Indictment.

INSTRUCTION NO. 30

Throughout the trial, you have been permitted to take notes. Your notes should be used only as memory aids, and you should not give your notes precedence over your independent recollection of the evidence.

In any conflict between your notes, a fellow juror's notes and your memory, your memory must prevail. Remember that notes sometimes contain the mental impressions of the note taker and can be used only to help you recollect what the testimony was. At the conclusion of your deliberations, your notes should be left in the jury room for destruction.

INSTRUCTION NO. 31

In conducting your deliberations and returning your verdicts, there are certain rules you must follow. I shall list those rules for you now.

First, when you go to the jury room, you must select one of your members as your foreperson. That person will preside over your discussions and speak for you here in court.

Second, it is your duty, as jurors, to discuss this case with one another in the jury room. You should try to reach an agreement if you can do so without violence to individual judgment, because your verdicts—whether guilty or not guilty—must be unanimous.

Each of you must make your own conscientious decision, but only after you have considered all the evidence, discussed it fully with your fellow jurors and listened to the views of your fellow jurors.

Do not be afraid to change your opinions if the discussion persuades you that you should. But do not come to a decision simply because other jurors think it is right or simply to reach your verdicts.

Third, if the defendant is found guilty, the sentence to be imposed is my responsibility. You may not consider punishment in any way in deciding whether the government has proved its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

Fourth, if you need to communicate with me during your deliberations, you may send a note to me through the Court Security Officer, signed by one or more jurors. I will respond as soon as possible either in writing or orally in open court. Remember that you should not tell anyone—including me—how your votes stand numerically.

Fifth, your verdicts must be based solely on the evidence and on the law which I have given to you in my instructions. Each verdict, whether guilty or not guilty, must be unanimous. Nothing I have said or done is intended to suggest what your verdicts might be—that is entirely for you to decide.

INSTRUCTION NO. 32

Attached to these instructions you will find the Verdict Forms and Interrogatory Form. The Verdict Forms and Interrogatory Form are simply the written notices of the decisions that you reach in this case. The answers to the Verdict Forms and Interrogatory Form must be the unanimous decisions of the jury.

You will take the Verdict Forms and Interrogatory Form to the jury room, and when you have completed your deliberations and each of you has agreed to the answers to the Verdict Forms and Interrogatory Form, your foreperson will fill out the Verdict Forms and Interrogatory Form, sign and date them and advise the Court Security Officer that you are ready to return to the courtroom.

Finally, members of the jury, take this case and give it your most careful consideration, and then without fear or favor, prejudice or bias of any kind, return the Verdict Forms and Interrogatory Form in accord with the evidence and these instructions.
